THE STYLUS

History

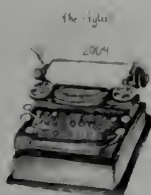

HISTORIANS DISAGREE ON THE EXACT DATE, BUT IT IS GENERALLY ACCEPTED THAT THE FIRST ISSUE OF THE STYLUS WAS PUBLISHED SOMETIME IN THE 550S AD IN ANCIENT ROME, ETCHED INTO SIDES OF THE TOWN WELL BY AGRIPPA OCTAVIUS III. HOWEVER, ROMAN CITIZENS LARGELY IGNORED THIS FIRST PUBLICATION, AND OCTAVIUS, DISHEARTENED BY HIS FAILURE, GAVE UP ON IT, ALLOWING THE STYLUS TO FALL INTO RELATIVE OBSCURITY OVER THE NEXT MILLENNIUM.

THE LITERARY MAGAZINE WAS REVIVED IN THE 1970'S AT BEDFORD HIGH SCHOOL BY MR. DAVID WALSH UNDER THE NAME "AND MILES TO GO." THIS LASTED FOR NEARLY A DECADE, UNTIL THE 80'S ARRIVED. TRYING TO CAPTURE THE APATHY AND CONFUSION OF THE DECADE, THE NEW ADVISOR JOHN DONAHUE AND HIS STUDENTS RENAMED THE PUBLICATION "PARALLAX", CHANGING THE DIRECTION OF THE MAGAZINE WITH A FRESH, NEW PERSPECTIVE.

THEN, IN 1998, THE GREAT PUBLICATION KNOWN AS THE STYLUS MADE ITS TRIUMPHANT COMEBACK AFTER OVER 1,400 YEARS OF DORMANCY. NOW UNDER THE ADVISEMENT OF THE JUST AND WISE MR. LARRY SHEINFELD, IT IS EXPECTED THAT THE STYLUS WILL BE LED INTO A NEW EPOCH OF ORIGINALITY, SHOWCASING A CORNUCOPIA OF BOLD AND ENLIGHTENING WORKS PRODUCED BY THE STUDENT BODY OF BEDFORD HIGH SCHOOL.

BHS Magazine of Writing and Art

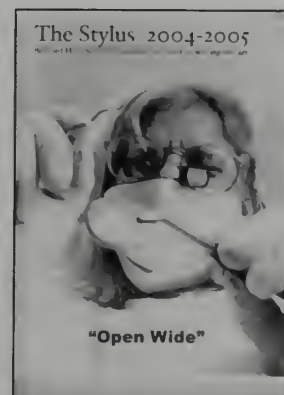

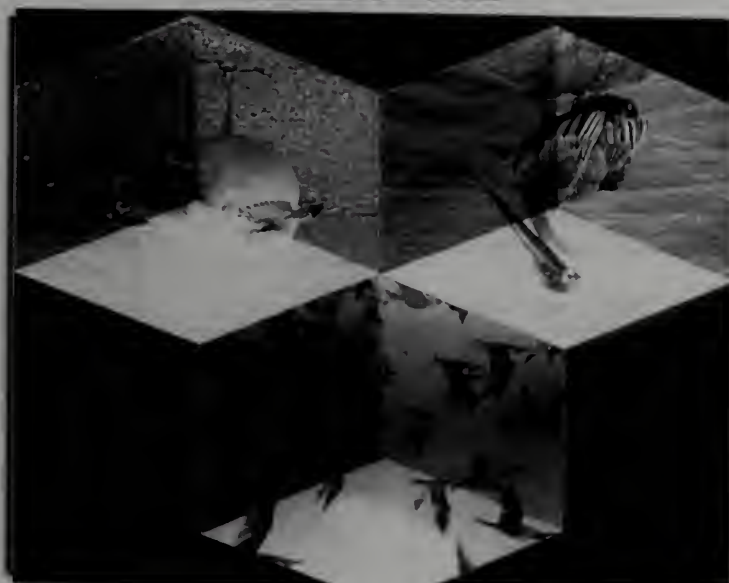

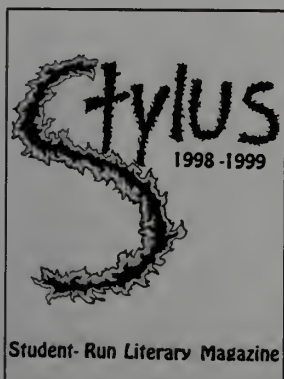

What We Do

THE STYLUS IS BEDFORD HIGH SCHOOL'S STUDENT-RUN LITERARY MAGAZINE.

WE COLLECT STUDENT-SUBMITTED LITERATURE AND ARTWORK (INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO; POEMS, STORIES, DRAWINGS, PAINTINGS, AND PHOTOGRAPHS). MEMBERS OF THE MAGAZINE CRITIQUE SUBMISSIONS AT WEEKLY MEETINGS, AND A MAJORITY VOTE OF OUR MEMBERS DECIDES WHETHER A PIECE IS ACCEPTED, SHELVED, OR REJECTED, WITH COMMENTS FOR HOW THE AUTHOR OR ARTIST COULD IMPROVE IT IN ALL CASES. RE-SUBMITTALS OF SHELVED OR REJECTED PIECES ARE ENCOURAGED.

ONE ISSUE IS PUBLISHED ANNUALLY SHOWCASING THE CREATIVE OUTPUT WE HAVE RECEIVED OVER THAT SCHOOL YEAR. WE HAVE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO REVIEW SOME REALLY WONDERFUL MATERIAL OVER THE PAST THREE YEARS, AND WE'RE VERY THANKFUL FOR ALL THE EFFORT AND ORIGINALITY PEOPLE HAVE BROUGHT TO THEIR SUBMISSIONS. OUR PAST ISSUES HAVE DISPLAYED THE TALENTS OF A DIVERSE SPREAD OF STUDENTS, AND ARE SOMETHING WE'RE ALL VERY PROUD OF. WE ONLY HOPE THAT PEOPLE'S INTEREST IN THE STYLUS WILL CONTINUE TO EXPAND IN THE COMING YEAR. PLEASE KEEP IN MIND THAT NEW MEMBERS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME, AND IF YOU HAVE ANY INTEREST, PLEASE JOIN US NEXT YEAR.

Senior Thanks

"We've got smoke!"- Sateesh
"1...2..."- Me

"Wait, wait, are you one of those people that cares?"- Tyler
"We're going streaking!"- Old School

First and foremost, I'd like to thank the staff of sparknotes.com.

Mom- You are super fantastic. Not only did you do my laundry, cook for me, put up with my antics, make trips to the emergency room, take me to sporting events, and spoil me in many other ways, you always listened and supported me. Thank you so much. Kim- Even though you don't believe me when I say it, I am forever grateful for having you as my big sister. You always offered to help me out, even when it was not easy for you. Also, thanks for the car, beating up my friends when I needed, and bringing some claim to fame for this family (1,000 point club all the way!). Tim- I could not have asked for a better brother. Even though you were the ladies man between us, always won in mini golf, and would have rather had Justin as a brother, I still wouldn't trade you for anyone else. Sateesh- Most of you are thinking that I will just bash Sateesh like there is no tomorrow, like I have done since 7th grade. But I am gonna take the high road on this one. You've been the best friend I could have asked for since we got into that fight in science in 7th grade...always willing to go out and taking a constant bombardment of jokes or take a pie in the face. So what if you starred at your wall for fun or you are the scariest driver in the world? You made up for these flaws with your...mad football skills? But seriously, you are a terrible driver. Anyways buddy, thanks for being the greatest Sateesh you could be, and thanks for New Years (although I would appreciate it if you keep your hands off my tree from now on). Andy- Sateesh jokes, Cheb impersonations, Cheb rookie card, and the pies (yes, the pies), rides in Trusty, "Rabble, Rabble", asking Fat Joe for fireworks on New Years. You couldn't captain "the team" to beat Boston Latin, but at least you guys showed up for most meets.

Jeff- Thehat and Naz, cone hunting, the midnight soda stop light, ditching Criscione at Unos, that amusement park trip and the 100 hour marathon (whenever they occur), "Rabble, Rabble", Monopoly/Risk, trying to teach me to drive stick, never leaving a wet friend dry, fixing (and insulting) my computer, almost hitting a deer, and drive by pies/fireworks Kevin- Besides Trusty, that 89' Caprice is the finest automobile Bedford has ever seen. Thanks for always being there to yell at Sateesh, the 72 cans of soda in DC, Frisbee, your four aces...me and Criscione are a better ruit team than you and Ariel Prashanth- The "drafts", always there to make some terrible, awful comment and being a translator from Russell to English Russell- How could any self respecting man like the Yankees?! You were an OC buddy, but comon...the Yankees?! Tyler- The pipe, the bat, the Dunkin's Bee Incident, our after school adventures in Wendy, and being the worst two camp counselors ever (what ever happened to Mr. Goolsby?)...we were a lethal combination of money, cars, and complete lack of intelligence Tristan- Shock Tour in Spain, talking about guns in chemistry when we shoulda done the homework Brendan- Civilization/Econ. with Donnelly, Readin' Fo College, prospect/potential talks...Hanley WILL pan out Lisa- Even though you provided no competition in bowling or mini-golf, and you called me fat, ugly, and "the sad boy" and you tried way to hard at work, I still enjoyed hanging out with such a cool person! (even if your stories where, shall we say, sub par) Melina- If you can say anything good came out of Hurricane Katrina, it was that I got to meet you (even if you didn't drive me in your car or respect my bubble) Gabby- Junior prom on 3 hours notice and for doing my hair. I'd also like to thank everyone in the LABBB classroom and anyone who worked at Bedford Day Camp (especially Liz, Travis, Shallon, the Haynes)...no major accidents! Well, I guess it's time for my final goodbye...I hope you guys have enjoyed these past years as much as me.

Veni, Vidi, volo in domum redire." [I came, I saw, I want to go home.] I want to thank my parents for feeding and supporting me for the last 18 years. Especially my mom, who has always been there for me. I also want to thank my brother Timmy for being a pain. Just kidding..... Or am I? To all my friends (You know who you are. If you don't, you are probably one of the chickens I have found.): ~superawesomebeaverglomp~ Finally, Buster, the best dog in the world. (I am probably hugging him right now.)

"Anything worth doing is worth doing well."-Proverb
"Slow and steady wins the race"-The tortoise & the hare
"People make mistakes. That's why pencils have erasers"-Mr. Bennet's poster

First I'd like to thank my parents (but not because I'm obligated to): Mommy & Daddy, thank you for feeding, sheltering, and clothing me for the last 17 years, and for providing your daughters with countless moments of humor, even if it was at your expense. I love you! Mommy: Thank you for "favoring" me, taking me out for "special days", waking me up when I couldn't wake myself up, letting me take mental health days, and trusting me. I know sometimes we pick on you, but it's only because we can... and of course because we love you. Daddy: thank you for your random rants (the volumes in my library of intellect increase by the day), teaching me to drive a standard so I could be a "real" driver, and teaching me how to get to most out of a half-gallon of ice cream. Ditty & Razy: thank you for making family events bearable and for your "Katy has a brain" chant. Kristin: thanks for throwing the chair on my head, sorry we made fun of you so much. Rachel: thank you for all of our stupid jokes that Kristin didn't think was funny (octopus, MAME-oth cone) and sharing your clothes with me. Next, I have to thank my best friends: I love all of you guys, thank you for putting up with my singing and all of our good times together: the 99 (crackers & cheese), Tracy's birthday, S-O-M-E-R-V-I-L-L-E, Fitchburg, Officer Undies coming to my house, bloody fingers, clogging Dan R's toilet, Cancun?, "Hose me down", and too many others. Leah: Where would I ever be without you? There are so many things that we get about each other that no one will ever understand. Thank you for always knowing exactly what I'm about to say. I love all of your "Leah walks" and the way you talk to boys. I'll never forget: Take it from a 20 to a 10, I tripped over Bruno, field hockey, "Mom! I don't do that on weekdays!", Last Friday night, the Justin concert, Frankie drove him home, you flicking your hair in my face when we weren't friends, thanks for the 99 knives, our first week of summer freshman year, when I got my license, running out of windshield fluid, and all of our weirdo music. To the Micu family: for taking me to the Fryeburg Mansion and for always having Bruegger's bagels. Erica: for always wanting to have fun and do interesting things when everyone else was a poop, prom committee, and always being such a good friend to all of us. I will never forget our good times freshman and junior year. Tracy: for making long nights at Friendly's (with Juanito Finito) fun, your digestive problems when you eat ice cream, and being the butt of a lot of jokes. Michelle, the cat killer: for being such a goober, not making fun of my stupid jokes because you secretly think they're funny, our cruises in the Jeep, not being able to see animals in the dark, and having the best breakup story (spoon). You got Duffed. Stephani: for always letting everyone sleep in the apartment, "drama, drama, drama", introducing me to Brad, getting uninvited to the prom, and looking Asian on certain occasions. Lindsay Fo: for the time we had together before you met your husband, laughing at everything I say, working at Friendly's, cranberry sauce, "SOMEBODY SPILLED SIERRA MIST ON MY SLEEPING BAG!" You're lucky to have a pulse after that night. Jen: my study buddy, Spain was fun, thanks for finally coming back to us! Honorable mentions: Amy B (keep in touch), Jess, Kristin, Steph, Jenny, Britni, Justin. Chris- thanks for the carpool, Sam. To the F(ield)-Ho(ckey) girls: for constantly being up for a laugh, we were definitely always cooler than the soccer girls, good luck to the program in the coming years! Bev, I hope you had fun cleaning up the toilet paper! Also thank you to Sarah and all the laxletes. The Spain crew: Rosa, Juana, Miguella, Katrina, Mel, Russell, Colin, and everyone else, remember: lo que pasa en España se queda en España. To all of my friends from the classes of 2004 and 2005, thank you for letting us party with you. To all of my teachers, thank you! Special thanks to my first period teachers and the office staff, sorry for always

I would like to say Thank you to my family and friends, especially to my parents, my two sisters and my brother. I never would have been able to get through grade school all the way through my high school years without you all. Ben, for always being there for me to talk to and offering a shoulder to cry on. Sarah, for always making me laugh when I needed it the most, and Becka for always just being my buddy all the time. To Mom and Dad, thank you for teaching me to never give up, and to work my butt off the past few years and never letting me get down on myself. The future is always uncertain but I know that you'll always be there for me, so thank you. Thank you Grammie and Grampa for supporting me with school as well as athletics. Beth, thank you for all the talks we have had and all the support you have shown me in and out of school. Aiden, for being such a beautiful little boy, and putting a smile on my face every time I see you. I never would have thought I could love a child as much you I do. Hey softball girls, thanks Mel, Cass, Merlo, Alli, Megan and Becka for giving me the opportunity to play with you guys, and to have such a great experience. I wouldn't have wanted any other group of girls to play with. To Ben Waite, for being my first "playdate" in kindergarten, and to my buddy Matt. Keith, for all the sleepovers we had when we were little, and being the one in the neighborhood we played with, it wouldn't have been the same if you weren't there. A thanks to Lis, Shall and Brit. The weekends wouldn't have been the same without you. Thank you Tim for all the support you have given me. Thank you to Kelly for being such a great coach, and for helping me through my four years of high school and for being such a great friend. I wouldn't have been able to get through it without you. Thank you to Ms. Lohrum, Mrs. Billouin, and Mrs. Sullivan for being such great teachers and helping me in so many ways you will never know. To those I may have missed I'm sorry, but Thank you.

Field hockey and basketball buds, thanks for the fun times Jenny, Steph, Kristin, Kristina, Leah, and Katy - everyone else you're the BOMB. To my girls, Lisa, Shallon, Cassy, Gracie, Melinda, and Britney, the countless sleepovers, bowling matches, movie nights, and silly pictures are great memories that I will never forget. To my parents, thank you for everything, especially letting me choose my own way. Heather - thank you for putting up with an overly morning-personish little sister, for understanding me and helping me understand myself, and for supporting me and trying to teach me (and that includes the 'summer school' in second grade!). Gina, you've been there for me forever; we've been together through laughter and broken hearts, countless video games and philosophical discussions and finding ourselves. I know we'll be friends for a long time to come. Fuzzy, even though we only met in eighth grade and got off on the wrong foot, we've become good friends. Thanks for putting up with an insane friend, and for being there when I needed a hug or a glomp. Sarah, I only met you in high school, but I will not forget all the mall crawls and Furuba marathons, the "What's my line" games, or the general hyperness. Mika, thank you for putting up with a rather naive high schooler and for being one of the few people who actually understands. Ms. Tocci, Public Speaking and English IV was a blast and I will not forget the heated debates, playing devil's advocate or mistaken definitions; and also, "Look Ma, I have a crayon!" Thank you for listening to philosophy and reading an overly melodramatic writer's notebook. Sarah J, Della, Kit, Megan, Marianna, Mike, Laura, Emma, Steph, Erin, Johnny-sama, Anna, Julie, Roni, Casey - I don't have room enough to thank you all properly, just remember the Osmosizer and Wicked. -The Get Up Kids

Mom- I always knew you were there to talk about anything, even when I didn't want to and I can't write in words what that has meant to me, knowing I could talk to you when I needed. Dad- I must admit I'm extremely grateful that you always were looking out for me, even when that meant all of my friends were petrified of you. I thank you both for everything you have given me. David- You've been such a good role model and I've always looked up to you in the best way possible, I love you all so much. Amebo- roni for life, "How tall is the average can," ten in one night, the car-ni-val, "look I am a little ___boy", shake it like a salt shaka, homecoming dance: eating cold beef on your kitchen floor, cutoffs, laughing till we cry or you choke up a triscuit/coffee/anything you are eating. Cackling in brighams/bertucci's/ANYWHERE, laughing through Red sox games,  there's eggs! You've been there through it all. LIFE DOMINATING US. I'm speechless to describe what it's meant to always have you to cry with, laugh with, or just talk with. I know nothing will ever be like it's now and I can't imagine my life without you bojangs but I'll always be here for you, always. So kiss kiss for now, we'll talk soon. Cassy- Bermuda! Scarface! Ocho, cell phone guy, You were always there for me when I needed to talk. Don't ever let anyone change you and hold onto everything that makes you who you are, because that's what I love so much about you. JordyJBuddaGram- love of cookie dough, tanning, getting gas in your truck. I enjoyed and valued your friendship so much and only wish I could've been there for you more. Lisa- girl scouts, the Gigolo, Dracut! hanging out in your basement. I'm so grateful to have grown up with you as a friend. Brendan- your dope and have been real fun to hang out with. Changbangfanglee- I wouldn't have survived US history without you and your foot fetish, you make me laugh harder then anyone else. Taylor- morning talks about everything, proms, bleacher painting. I always loved hanging out with you and wish we could've more but when we're neighbors on the beach with hot husbands we'll make up for lose time. Evan- what would've I done without you? helen's, Halloween, where's Egypt? Japan's an island? nights spent laughing so hard in your basement. Alex- there are no words. Ben- bingo! Thanks for always being there to talk to and making creepier faces than me. Last but definitely not least... yo Justin I only wish I had met you sooner, you've made senior year better then I ever thought possible. I'll never forget you and your boot, my boy. Finally I'd like to thank everyone else that sat around all those nights with nothing to do; I wouldn't take back one night for anything. I'll miss those most because of all of you.

It's really late at night, the day before this is due, so hopefully I don't forget anybody, and if I did forget you and you feel as though you should be thanked... Thank-you! Mom&Dad: Even though I think you guys are kinda tough I Love You, and I know it was for my own good. Thanks for putting your lives aside to let me enjoy my childhood. All the trips for softball, and being at every game even though you made me nervous sometimes. Dad: Thanks for all your advice, and providing me with everything I needed, and especially for not always putting half in the bank, and keeping an open mind to my "nationality thing". Mom: Thanks for always being there when I needed someone to talk to. You sacrificed a lot for me and I really appreciate it, and thanks for letting me always take the car. Steph: freshman year, you know! The late night ibuprofen, and upper A hall. We had so much fun, and we could never replace those memories. I can't really list the rest... hahah, but good luck out west! Bec&Grace: Baywatch in my pool, which is all I have to say. J/K, all the softball games, and thanks for all the rides to school. I'll never forget our walks at night, stealing cones, and those talks... Brit: we just started hanging out this year, but you are such a good friend. Pina Colada, and Pain is Love. . Hahah. Anywayz, thanks for being understanding, and for all the rides on base. By the way I love your mixes... AT!Chapman: NO! You heard that a lot from me, haha. Thanks for always listening to my problems, and giving advice. One day your mom might get her wish... you know the whole daughter-in-law thing. You've been there through everything and I can't say thank you enough... and oh ya, your party will go down in BHS history! Evan: I'll miss our notes in math class the most. You are the most positive person I've ever met. Thanks for always making fun of me, and letting me beat you on math tests. Oh ya, you owe me $8, don't think I forgot. Cassy: There's so much I could say. First, Thanks for catching all my throws at first base. Wow, all of the plays and movies we made. Sonik, but with a backwards K, we were just the cool. Pretending we had alien skateboards when we thought some guys were in the woods. Being models and taking pictures. Remember... "My twins and their older sister would like to see the movie", fun times! Shallon: Even though we kicked each other out of our houses I still love you! Lots of good memories, apple picking in my plaid pants, leaving your sister up in a tree, and putting tacks under her rug... those were the days! Danny D: I had to put you in here cause you're just amazing... hahah, but seriously. Thanks for the indoor track memories, walking through Roxbury center and the rides in your car with the heated back messenger... I swear I wasn't using you. O'Neil: You were there for me through a tough time, and you were always there to listen. Thanks. Luke: I learned so much from what we went through together, good luck in everything you do. Jimmie: I just met you this year, but you are the funniest person I've ever met. Thanks for letting me listen to your CDs, hahah, and dra-Wing on my desk. I love the booty popping, and counting fat people in the mall. Jy: had to save you for last. You know how I feel. I still can't believe that we have so much in common, its crazy. You are an amazing person, and I can't wait to see what will happen... More Thanx to, Lauren, Davey, Dinah, Ann, Brendan, Travis B, Grant, Chris R, Josh A, Kristen M, Thank you everyone! I'm out...

"Holy * man, the van on net" -Coach Solomon Chebor
 "How was I suppose to know you can't kill a goat?" -Cheb again
 "That's minus points, out of order, alien, jenga, from the other side." -Cheb once more
 "Hey girls, give me your shirts" -Cheb, to who he thought were XC girls that didn't turn in their uniforms
 "I smell a win." -Patrick Reed

"Bedford track, doing what we can with what we've got." -Jim Foltz
 Family: Mom and Dad, you guys gave me all the support I needed while at the same time letting me do my own thing. That's all a teenager could ask for. Kevin, you're goofy but you're my brother and you'll probably turn out much more normal than me in the long run. School: Mr. Chinosi, Mr. Stephenson and Mr. Reynolds stand out for being genius crazy, hippy crazy, and just plain crazy. Transportation: Trusty, you were with me in the good times and you were with me in the bad times. No friend, lover, or other Ford model will ever come close to what we had. Employment: Dunkin Donuts, you taught me to hate the man. Springs Brook Park, you taught me that at 17 years old the human brain is not fully grown and still has many laziness and poop joke circuits that won't develop until college. Athletics: Every sports team, military unit and religious cult on the face of the earth pales in comparison to the fanatical devotion that the Bedford High School Cross Country team had toward running. We were a band of brothers. We got up early, we came home late, we dedicated our lives and sometimes our very well being to the endless and torturous pursuit of victory. Seriously though, I don't think anyone had more fun losing. 0 and 6...you know how the saying goes. Pat, "I smell a win." Keith, "Just one more gate guys." Eric, "Coach he stole our bike!" Lucky, well...most of your quotes are way too filthy for senior thanks. El Dugout taught us valuable lessons in social awareness and mathematics. Trailblazing combined running and domestic terrorism to make some of the best times I've ever had. When you look back on it, all the right things came together that freshman year, and we were fortunate enough for them to more or less come together for the next three years as well. The biggest factor, of course, was Coach Solomon Chebor. Cheb, you're probably the funniest, most foreign man alive, and your best days weren't spent breaking world records, they were spent here at BHS with the team that loved you. "And the other one is" Friends: Shanks, for being the Hindu god of schoolwork. Russell, Churella, for near death seizures and other crazy antics. Ariel, for providing a formidable ping pong opponent of the opposite sex. Oh boy, breaking out the big guns now: Kevin, you're the craziest kid I know and you've been that way since back in the day. Wachusett, Cross Country, fireworks, college visits, you were there dominating all of it and will without a doubt be big man on campus. Vatter, you are a precise, calculating machine, but inside that stainless steel exterior lies a regular steel interior that plays with jello when nobody's watching. James, on a good day, with the Coke flowing and a safe distance between us and the nearest morally conscious person, we were unstoppable. In the words of the great Kenny Banya, "That's gold Jerry, gold!" Last and least, Sateesh, you are by far the most normal member of our group, and for that reason you were ragged on, tooled on, and physically abused to a degree that would drive most people insane. You, however, are the Dark Knight, and whether what's coming at you is a pie, a lion, James, or some combination of the three, you've never lost your cool and are probably the greatest varsity football player Bedford will ever have..... go to the other teams sideline. To anyone I've forgotten: you really should have made that extra effort to be more interesting.

Family: I couldn't have asked for a more amazing family. Mum: you always know exactly what is going on with me, sometimes even before I do. You helped me to appreciate the little things in life and shape me into who I am. Thanks for watching Gilmore Girls and Beaches with me and making popcorn. Dad: Thanks for not putting up with any of my crap. Father-daughter days were always the best; they taught me a lot about life. It may not always seem like it, but I love you with all of my heart and appreciate you. Robin: You are my other half. You have helped me through so much. Thanks for sister-to-sister days, dancing, being overprotective, and making fun out of anything. I carry you in my heart, and love you a million Swedish Fish. Teachers: Chinosi, Sheinfeld, Felker, M. Sullivan, Señorita, Kurtzman, Reichle, Krueger, and all others, you have taught me so many wonderful lessons that I will take with me after BHS. Thanks. Spucks, cocoa, bowling, thunderstorms, the lab, "camping", crag, stupid mike, laundry, tim & kate, buck-a-pound, improv, Jack Johnson, piggybacks, beta fish, homeless people shopping carts. Sunday mornings with banana pancakes were great. "Worst idea ever!" You quite the individual my darling, and I heart you forever. Sara: We have so much history since the pink paintbrush. Band is our sport, we are biggest band geeks. Peeing and singing together, listening to bad pop music, and W10], good times. I love you! (your beautiful eyes too!) I'm glad that we made the pact, because it resulted in an awesome yet disturbing friendship. Nooms & Audrey: My calm in times of police. D-Mac: you put up with the craziness and remind me how to pronounce my R's. Math=death. You are my favorite twin. Travis: I'm glad that your car hasn't exploded (yet). Sorry for making us practice, but it was the best season we've ever had. Grissom: CSI ked. Take five bahs! You are hotta than a stick of Big Red! Ji-hyen: Wake up! Yearbook Staff: you can never feed me enough popcorn. You guys taught me so many things this year: don't put beef jerky and CD's in the microwave, how to make chandeliers out of computer parts, and how to act around girls. Dru, sorry I was distracting. Story time was fun though. (I heart Eliza, Katieneff, Mike, and Christine!) I may permanently have marker on my arm, but I love you! Caity: Later! Amanda: Which one's bigger? I can't start to describe what I have put my parents through over the years but I can start by saying thank you for everything. Mom - Thank you for being my alarm clock every morning. Thank you for taking me to endless baseball practices and games, buying me equipment whenever I felt it was necessary, and being there to be the embarrassing mother yelling at the top of your lungs. You're the best mom and even though I don't show it much, I really love you. Dad - I admit it I'm a pain in the neck sometimes, but you seemed to always be able to get over it and show how much you cared. Thanks for giving me rides to hockey at four in the morning and taking me and Abe "shpatzierung." (Ha ha). To both my parents, thanks for the constant flow of money and being there through everything. You guys are the best. I love you. Abe - Thanks for being the best little brother a kid could ask for. Not many kids can throw a ball as hard as I do and have their bro catch it! Thanks for the fun times in your room playing knee hockey, coming to my games and being my number one fan. I'll miss you next year, but remember I love you Abe. Jess - Wow, it's been a trip. I had no idea what I was getting into that day I asked you out online. Now I have found out that I discovered what might be the best friendship I will ever have. We have had so many good times together and I hope they will never end. Thanks for all the late night phone conversations, 24 hours hanging out, and just being there for me through everything. Not all of our times have been great but they created one amazing experience. You're amazing, Jess. I love you so much. Reynolds Family - Just wanted to throw you guys in here for being my second family. Julie for being the little sister I never had. Love you poop and Mike and Laura for calling me an idiot whenever it seemed necessary. Jamie - Thanks for being there really late when everyone else is asleep, being such a good friend and telling me to shut up when I complained about life. Julie, Jamie, Laura, and Mike - thanks for all you've done. Love you guys. Now for the guys. Bege - Wow, something is seriously wrong with us. All of our jam sessions and not knowing what we were doing once, "stepping outside the box." It's amazing how every time one of us has a dumb idea we end up doing it, like the trips to Tower Records every day where we end up spending thirty bucks. Dave - Thanks for getting those pads for me. The best thing that has happened to me in high school is when you got me to be your goalie. Thanks for spending hours on Ms Kelleher's English project but still making it a good time, playing long toss, throwing out our arms, and letting us chill at your house when we were desperate. Bus - For not getting on the bike that night on the Cape, running through the mud at Fawn Lake and always being up for doing something stupid. Duff - For some reason we always seem to end up staying up for hours. But it was fun while it lasted. Thanks for being the one that would chill with different people if it seemed like a good time. T-Bone - You're going in the dumper cuz you don't know what a subject is. Kevin - Thanks for being the one to have us over. School would be totally different without you man! And any of the other idiots I have hung out with over the course of high school. Now, onto the girls. Butch - Our nights exploring and just kind of driving for nothing. Thanks for bringing the real Jew out of me. Leah - The third point to the 2005 summer triangle. Michelle - My first girlfriend. Lindsay - Just for some fun times. Tracy - What was it? Three straight years of science together? Erica - Thanks for always being there no matter how much I put you through and introducing me to Best Buddies. KP - Thanks for being the girl to laugh and having us over to chill in your basement. The rest of the girls - I love all you guys. Mel - I really liked getting to know you through out high school and I hope we stay close for a long time I love you. And to her girls, good times I'll see you guys around. Sugga and Sunny - Thanks for yelling back whenever I felt like screaming. Mike A. - I met you back on the Twins and really wanted to get to know you. Now, after being my best buddy for two years, we have gotten close and I really have fun with you. Thanks Mike. And to the rest of the LABBBB kids - Good luck with everything. Anyone I forgot to mention I'm sorry but it's not you it's me. Thanks for everything guys. Sam

Thanks to my family for putting up with my insanity and all the crap I gave you guys. You got me through the tough times and kept me focused on what's ahead. Cheb was the best coach and X-C was the greatest varsity activity, there's little I'd rather do than run with you drofdeb X-C greats. Lacrosse gave me 3 concussions and a broken shoulder but for you guys I kept playing through it all. All who I played Frisbee with know that nothing is out of reach, no matter how impossible the goal or catch may seem. I'd like to thank all those who've ever doubted me, especially when I was injured. You gave me the inspiration to succeed by proving that I can do the unbelievable. Andy, I've always been able to count on you for something crazy, hilarious, or adventurous. James, you're the funniest offensive person I will ever know, don't ever change. JV, you're the one who I believe can do pretty much anything humanly possible. Kyle, soccer prodigy, I'll always remember you for your dedication and how your trademark goofiness. Sateesh, words can't describe your driving or why you are amazing. Prashanth and Russell, thanks for sharing the beginning of your paths to success, although you may do some goofy things along the way. Taylor, you were always there running by my side and were one of the few people I could trust with anything. Ariel, you're all-around amazing and definitely the best ruit partner ever, thanks for always being there and watching out for me. To everyone else, thank you for making me the person I am today and high school the greatest years of my life. I will never forget you... continue to dominate life.

First, I would like to thank my family for everything they have ever done for me. Without their guidance, I would not be living the life I currently am today. I also thank my friends as a whole, for every act of kindness they have shown me. Every friend of mine has contributed in some way to the person I have become through high school, and their impressions will forever remain upon me as I continue to grow.

"Too many people miss the silver lining because they're expecting gold."

Between the laughter and tears, good times and bad, stressful weeks and la. Sundays, the past four years have flown by. Hard times have shown me that a friend is someone who knows the song in your heart and can sing it back to you when you've forgotten the words. I'd like to thank all those who've always believed in me, who've taught me how to laugh and how to get through rough days. And I'd especially like to thank those who taught me the little things: like how undercooked cookies taste amazing, milk with extra, extra chocolate syrup is a great conversation starter, I can't park and have no sense of direction, what "ilysm" really means, retail therapy can solve almost any problem, bad reasoning definitely leads to bad decisions, there really IS a book called "Vergina," it's possible to break a phone by throwing it at a person's head, I'll lose an arm if I EVER hurt "cranky," there's so many levels of trashiness, ice cream with chocolate fish surprises really is an innovation, shaking orange juice without tightening the cover always ends with orange juice all over the place, it's possible to watch the same season of "Friends" three times and still not be sick of it, Bad Boys II and RunTelDat are THE funniest movies, people actually wear ear plugs at the library because it's a little too loud, and apparently "roach killers" isn't a common used term. But most of all I'd like to thank those who made these last four years absolutely unforgettable.

You shouldn't have moved, now there's no one for me to be immature with in Bedford. Keith-HEY! HEY! I know you! Why'd you leave me in Piano? I'm real bad now. Oh, by the way... you're the man haha. Chapma and Danny-Guys, it'll be ok to stop by my house in... 10 years? Haha the on time a camping trip is planned, I can't go. See you guys around... right?... guys? Cheng-You need to come out some more haha. And could Cheng Li be gettin' a girlfriend?? Get in there. Dom and Greg-You guys got girlfriends. I don't know you anymore. Haha nah I'm kidding... but seriously though. We had some fun times. And Greg... I would have at least rung the doorbell before I came in. Redmond-Guys that's funny right? Guys? We never did knock down that bee nest. Amy-"Hey Amy, look at that cat!" Eleventeen... We were neighbors for like 5 years and we hung out at each others houses maybe 10 times haha. Thanks for being my friend. Melissa-Haha you're the funniest girl I know. Keep up the hand waving and arm shaking and weird dances. ;) I should stop being so weird when I see you in the morning. Michaela-Haha, do I even need to say anything? Thanks for being there for me! Todd-Nose goes! Darn... Todd won again. Haha man, just kidding. To Everyone-Thanks for everything. I've had some real good times with all of you guys, and I'm real glad to be friends with everyone. Road trip during the summer? Sam, Justin, Cassy, Taylor, Baker, Steph Lima, Jen and anyone else who I make weird faces at in the hall, it was nice knowing you guys. Thanks to the 2005 soccer team, even though we tied Boston Latin haha, I still had fun. And thanks to the 2004 soccer team, even though most of you guys are in college. Mark, Jonney, Christian, Brian, Joe, and everyone else, thanks for all the rides and for puttin' up with me. That soccer season, and the indoor team, were some of the best times of my life. To anyone else that I forgot, and everyone who I've known, I'm sorry for missing you in here. Maybe you can come steal my lunch money or something. I'm gonna be 20 my senior year of college... Evan's gonna be around 30. I'm not young I swear.

Saying thanks for year book is like saying good bye in life. But as I don't feel like paying any more then $60 for my yearbook, I'll keep this to a minimum. Mom, dad, Dennis, thanks for being you, supporting, annoying, and the crazy family that you can be. My friends, all who have come and gone, I wouldn't want to forget thanking any of you, so "you know who you are." I'm glad I met you and I appreciate you being there for me. Thank you life, for being beautiful. You have fed my eyes the most confusing sequence of events I could ever ask for. You have inspired me to run and jump and fall and float, and you have taught me that all these actions are the same, because nothing holds anything down. You remain simple, no matter how complicated things seem. I know you're always in the background keeping things cool, calm, and real. Thank you life, for existing. You introduce me to such beautiful beings and create such thrilling fleeting moments in the relationships and interactions that move me.

Thinking about all the people I want to thank truly gives me a splitting headache. Without a solid support system behind you, High School can be a complete train wreck. I want to thank my best friends, Kayla, Megan, Alec, Jessica, Erica, Alyssa and Jeremy for always making things fun and reminding me that you should never take life too seriously or it will swallow you alive. To all my goofy guy friends (you know who you are) thanks for always keeping things interesting during the good, the bad and especially the ugly. It's been a blast we all had some good times and some bad (Jess, at least we can now laugh about that night!). Kayla, no one could ask for a better best buddy, thanks for always having a good joke for any bad time, Hampton, simply Hampton, baby. Megan thanks for always balancing me out and reminding me to take everything with a grain of salt. Alyssa, thanks for never judging and always just helping through any sticky situation. Alec, what can I say, my name isn't effin Warren! Jeremy, thanks for always having some kind of joke up your sleeve to turn my frown, upside down. Thanks to all my old best buddies, we may have lost touch but we'll always have our Easter egg hunts and silly Girl Scout trips. Especially thanks to my parents for always backing up my choices in life, and lastly to my brother because that tree definitely had it coming.

O Brother, Where Art Thou?

To Mom, Dad, Milo, Hamish, and Ian. To Grandma, Grammie, Alex, Amy, Miranda, Angelo, Gio, and Emma. To Captain Vegetable. Crunch, crunch, crunch. To Ann and Melinda, and that poor Chinese baby who can't eat Jell-O. To Tim, Albi, Catherine, Caity, Katy, Kate, Claire, Allie, Henry, and Byron, for being overall cool kids and integral parts of the dream team. I love you guys more than 500 words allows. To Emma, Andy, Dru (WIND!!), Audrey, Naomi, and Alec for being crazy, funny, Ewan McGregor-obsessed chums. Keep on keepin' on. To Lauren, for killing the spirit of Christmas. To Madrigal: Jenna, Steph, Andrew, Joey, Sarah, Olivia, Laura, Amelia, and Meghan. To Grant-OH YEAH! To Mike Poe for all those break-ups and for denying me CD after CD. To Tristan for never agreeing with me. To Milo, for being my brother, no matter how much I annoyed you. To Hamish, for finally letting your sense of humor shine through, and for LFO. To Ian, for life lessons and late-night cop shows. To Sara for being strong and laughing ALL THE TIME.

Steph. Cocoa Puffs! To Ryan, for being quirky, impervious to British humor, and really considerate. To Randy, for that nervous giggle and for never raising your hand. To Craig, for the Fox theme song, hot Asians, anime losers, Less Than Jack and my desperate wish that one day I will defeat you in Worms. To Nick, for being my first friend ever, and for still being my friend now. To Molly, Evan, Anne, Alan, for being my home away from home. To Lynn and Franklin, for thinking it's weird when I knock on your door. To Louisa, Wendell, and Gemma, for letting me come over all the time and not asking for ritual animal sacrifice in return. To everyone involved with Shakespeare. To Neil, for always being positive, happy, down-to-earth, and heart-wrenchingly earnest. You seriously made my bad mood go away last year. To Callahan's. To Mr. Low, Debbie, Mr. Jourdan, Donnell, Boschetto, B.Bills, Mr.DeNitto, and Sherm. To Chino, Never Settle. To Mouse. To Hannah, because you keep changing and yet staying the same, always true to who you are. I've grown up with you, put up with you, spazzed with you and at you, been an absolute loser, and I've been sorry for all the harsh things I've said and the arguments we've had. And for the Orlando Bloom appreciation, which was kind of to Amy, because even if you don't really know what you're going to do, I know you'll be fine, even if you feel like running away. Also, Hugh Jackman is a demigod and I'm glad you're on my side on that one. Most of all, you listen to people and do your best to help them, even when you get nothing in return. You da bomb! You and Hannah are my sisters. To Natty, for being my brother. I honestly know you too well, and I know that's mutual. Thanks a bunch for all the good times, all the chicken fingers, and all the times I've made a idiot out of myself and you were there to watch. And laugh. Mockingly. Yeah, thanks for that. Cheers. O and Sportacus is fine.

Molly: you're the most amazing person in the world. I'm going to miss you a whole bunch when I go to college. You can come visit, but stay away from my roommates. I love you a ton. Milo: Dude, you've been my best friend for ten years now, which is longer than the . I can't really put this into words very well. Thanks for showing me music I might've never seen otherwise, and thanks for putting up with me in middle school. My parents: Guys, I'm sorry for being occasionally difficult. Mom thanks for A) giving birth to me, and B) getting me through high school at least marginally well-organized. Dad, thanks for A) keeping that cynicism flowing, and B) being one of the funniest people I've ever met. I love you both. Evan: you are wonderfully abnormal. I honestly never know what's going to come out of your mouth from one moment to the next. When you die, donate your brain to a laboratory, so that someday, maybe, somebody can find out what exactly makes you tick. I love you beaucoup man. Craig: Dude, thanks for being the only one dorky enough to get as excited over D&D as me. Nobody else will know the joys of critting on a mind flayer with a +4 flaming greatsword using whirlwind attack (if that made sense to you, congrats. You will not date in high school.) Tim: dude, how do you manage to do the most inappropriate thing at the funniest time and get away with it? It's a gift. Cherish it. Albi: At this point, I owe you about 300 in gas money, which you will probably never see. History Fair was incredible, and thanks for putting so much effort in. Dru: You are simultaneously one of the funniest and one of the most terrifying people I've ever met. The fact that I didn't get my sources done in time will haunt me to my grave. Neil: Dude, I am so glad Milo picked you to be in our group. If there was a competition for Universe's Nicest Person, and it was down to you or like Gandhi, you would probably win it. Mr. Sunderland: Thanks..... Caity: Don't worry about us graduating. We'll have that caity-porter up and running by then. But seriously, you are very very very cool. Grant: you, my brother, are mighty argumentative. Thanks for arguing back and also having good musical taste. Except Boston. C'mon man. Natty: You are far too talented, more than is actually healthy for anybody. Keep being that hardcore folk kid. Dinah: you were my first friend like 12 years ago. Thanks a bunch for that. Alec: Dude, I have been in about 10 drama things with you by now, and I have never yet seen you memorize your lines on time. Yay for coasting along on charisma. Zelinka: I think you still owe me for that dollar I lent you. Rossin: seriously, where do you come up with it? You're hilarious kid. Concords (Allie, Katy, Katie, Cat, Henri pretty much counts, Tim, Desi)-you guys are incredibly cool. I love you guys, but I need to thank Bedford people. Band kids (Andy, Sara, Laura, Amy, Ben, Bridgeman, Caitlin Hall, the Drumline, most everybody else): You guys are far cooler than anybody would expect. And we weren't awful this year! I'm not going to have room to thank everybody with a personalized thing, so I'm going to do a name dump. If I didn't give you a full thing, it is not a slight against you, I just don't have the cash. I would need a tome to personally thank every single person that I want to to the extent I want to. Anyways, here goes. Thanks to: Laura KB, Ann, Emma, Ariel, Mr. Felker, Lauren Mazell, Ching Tzer, Davey, Naomi, Jiyhen, the Drama Club (mostly), Hannah, K, the kids in the courtyard (mostly), you know what? There are far too many people to do this here. Okay, so blanket statement: Thank you to everybody who I've gotten to know for the last twelve years, whether still here or gone. I will never know another group of people as well as I know you guys. I love you all.

Friends There are so many things I could say to all of you guys and to each of you individually but I won't, because I don't need to. I hope each of you know how much you mean to me. From going off on adventures in the backyard, long bus rides to school, TGI Friday's at Shallon's, lighting that deck on fire, to hanging out on Balsam drive every night, it seems like we have always been together. We've been plenty of creepy places, gone on so many adventures, lied and gotten caught and I wouldn't change a minute of it. I wanted to say thank you all for being there for me in every aspect of my life and for always sticking by me in through the good times and the bad. I'm always going to remember the times we've had and I hope we have many more. Bedford Farms "20 minutes in the freezer" for all of you! I'm just kidding. another year has come and past. seems mere moments ago was that fateful first day of freshman year, and now its time to thank those who have made the time fly, persay. i plan to keep this short and sweet, so just bare with me. first off, i'd like to thank my wonderful parents. i know it may be difficult and stressful dealing with my crap, and believe me it can go both ways, you know that i am very grateful for the support i've had from you these first 18 years. next, my sisters Meghan and molly. the good, the bad, the ugly, and yet your support has made much of my life a success to date. as for teachers, i'd have to thank first and foremost, Captain Richard Carson, USAF Ret. and Chief Master Sergeant Christopher Edris, USAF Ret. for all the support and guidance, for all the opportunities i've been presented, for all the lessons I've learned: from "time is desks," to the chaos of squirrels in the spring. next, Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Chinosi. i know JR retired two years ago and Mr. C left this past summer, but sophomore year, i would have to say that these were two men that were able to get me to start thinking. Mr. Felker, I have enjoyed the band and learned much that has only rounded me out for the "whole person concept" that USAFA is always talking about during the admissions process. i'd also like to extend my gratitude to Laura Dooley, Laura, Amy, Monica, the band kids (bradford keds), jeff, and dusty, all of the JROTC cadets, my guys at work: jay and all the crazy people i've met as a result, rob, mark, anthony, without y'all, "work sucks, i know." thanks to all of you, i appreciate all of the effects you have had on my life to date, but i can no longer look to the past, but to the present and beyond! AIM HIGH!

First and foremost I would like to thank my family for supporting me throughout my life, through the good times and the bad. I also want to thank them for staying strong and doing what was best for me my senior year, after all the Hurricane Katrina madness. I would especially like to thank my boyfriend Sébastien for always being there for me, supporting me, & showing me so much love. We have been able to stay strong, even though were hundreds of miles apart, and that proves how we are truly meant to be. I love you with all my heart! I would also like to thank my aunt & uncle who have been generous enough to take me into their home and care for me as if I was one of their own children. To the girl's volleyball team, I would like to thank them for taking me in and treating me like I had been on the team for years. Also I would like to congratulate them for a wonderful season. We beat Boston Latin! To my parents, for all the nagging, the Scrabble, ten places, eighteen years, the bizarre dinner conversations, the unceasing support, and the love. To my sisters, for the thousands of miles we traveled in such confined spaces, by train, plane, car, bus, ferry... and for all of the advice, the books, the arguments, the conversation (bizarre dinner, intellectual, and otherwise), and tolerance. Eliza. You know my opinion about how truly beautiful things are ineffable, but I'll try nonetheless. Neglige-vapise, in every single language. You've taught me more than any other person I've ever met. Thank you for all the picnics, the random numbers I memorized, the movies, the talks about God, sex, insecurity, and continuity, Page Road, Page Field, the nights in, the bets, the letters, the surprises, the comprehending silences, the pouncing, the Eskimo love, the fact that you still reduce me to stuttering incoherence, and you. When I'm too old to remember my name, I'll still remember us, and what we did in the crazy bloom of youth. Prashanth, for the philosophical arguments, your old tennis racket, the competition, the tabla concert, the college visits, and the wizarding duels. James, Jeff, Kevin, Andy, Kyle, Dave. For the fireworks (the confiscated ones, and the ones I couldn't light), the insane driving, Spain, soccer, Wachusett, El Dugout, and the dynasty. Milo, for the sometimes overbearing jokes that le bourgeoisie will never understand. Until the Riviera. Lauren, you're the best hitting coach ever. Peter, for the backflips you never did. Katy, for teaching me stick. Katie, the lexicographical polemics. Em, for conversation, bickering and humbling. To the strangers and the faceless, who formed part of the fleeting mélange that I'll remember as adolescence. To the future; each age is a dream that is dying, or one that is coming to birth.

PRASHANTH- Video camera, Indian Jones, protein shakes, slacking at XC and in general, not eating meat. SATEESH- Being a good sport, driving with a death-wish, best New Years ever, acting like you had no hand in poker when you always had a full house, saying some of the funniest things ever. CULLEN- Always having something strange/funny to say, programming classes, seeing things the same way I do, working for Mr. Lord and all those terrible computers we had to put up with. DRUSILLA- Test 'help', putting up with my 'violence', being good at being short, being bogged down with clubs/schoolwork. You are an awesome friend! JIHYEN- sub-asian grades, text messages, arguing who has a better car, bragging about gas mileage/gas price, always being in a good mood, making me laugh with your 'weird' English. ANN- For asking thought provoking questions, not being happy with the norm, you really have had a profound effect on me and I am grateful for getting to know you. MCGOWAN- for being such a cool and funny teacher. My COMPUTER- for being there in the early mornings and never letting me down with a paper due the next day. To anyone I may have missed: Thanks for all the good times!

To start I have to thank my MOM and DAD for never letting me be just good enough, always pushing me that extra mile to be all I could be. My SISTER for listening to me complain about my parents every time they pushed me to do better. RORY, for the awesome math classes, driving in Butterscotch, the Jeep, and Half Pint. New York City after Christmas with all the clubs, getting lost everywhere and 'crashing' your car in Boston. Quetila, philosophical, HELP!, grape juice, the cemetery, starbucks, and being the only person who always knew exactly what I was talking about. MARJORIE, by far the coolest person at Huckins, Pre-Calc, watching the OC, complaining about anything and everything, all those times at your house. LAUREN, all those times at UMASS, trade her for (blank)!, complaining about everything, waking you up after my finals. JACKIE, Pre-calc, dying our hair, driving in the Bemmer. And of course going to senior prom with all of you guys!!! LAURA, working together, RHPS, that band trip to NY. EMILY, RHPS, Dunkins, always borrowing your clothes. GUS, the hotel and the bath, climbing trees, the stupid Marines, you doing nothing in NC, 'you're the best I can get'. RAZ, you and MARC's apartment, lunch, that time the Red Sox lost, that time we beat Darren at pong. RODGER, CULLEN, SHAUN, MISSY, all those awesome times in Cambridge. ALEC and KIM, for being the only people in my grade I can still hang out with. STEPHENSON, WALSH, and CHINOSI, for being the only teachers who successfully taught me anything. EVERYONE who graduated in '03, '04, or '05. AMANDA, ASHLEE, AMY, PARHAM, CHAPMAN, TIM, BRAD, SAM, and everyone else I forgot but is still a cool kid.
